Protect Office Workers with Disinfecting & Sanitizing

NEW YORK, May 5, 2020 (Newswire.com) - Velstar a global technology solutions provider announced today a new partnership with NYC Steam Cleaning to provide office disinfecting and sanitizing solutions to building owners and their office tenants, adding to a portfolio of useful business resources from 130+ global partners.

The current pandemic associated to COVID-19 has significantly altered personal and professional ways of living & working and calibrated a new normal that most likely will not be 'business as usual.' However, Velstar remains committed to providing its clients with useful information for ALL business needs regardless of circumstance or environment. To this end, they have partnered with NYC Steam Cleaning to extend its disinfecting & sanitizing solutions to mitigate threats and disruptions to business operations due to infectious diseases from a broad range of pathogens.

"We spent the past month assessing our business model for current and future expectations of our clients; inclusive of resources to accommodate work from home/shelter in place mandates. We also determined that we needed to figure out a viable pathway back to the office with an alignment of existing and new resources that ensure a safe workplace for our clients, their staff, and their customers," stated Tony Ruggieri, Managing Partner at Velstar. He added, "Fortunately our proposition to NYC Steam Cleaning was favorable and we moved quickly to frame out a master marketing arrangement, service estimating and scheduling procurement with coverage between Philadelphia and Boston."
